

Reliability Standards Tracking Site – How to Post a Comment

Below are instructions for commenting on a standard authorization request (SAR) or draft standard. The instructions assume that you have registered and signed into the Reliability Standards Tracking site.

Each “standard under development” is displayed in the List of SARs/Standards table on the home page. As the standard progresses through each stage of development and approval, progress is tracked by green (indicating that action is occurring on the site) and gray (indicating a completed stage).

Green indicates when a SAR or standard is available for comment during a certain stage (SAR development and draft standard development).

Click on the name of the standard under development for which you would like to submit comments.

List of SARs/Standards
(Click on a "Standard Under Development" for detailed information about the item.
A green cell indicates the "Standard Under Development" is either open for comments or out for ballot.)
